Halstead.

The most ridiculous person in American newspaperdom is Murat Halstead, the editor of the Cincinnati Commercial. He is the bawling member of the fraternity. He has long employed his barber to make him a "curled darling" of the Nation, but the Nation has steadily refused to supplement the efforts of the curling iron, and the great, fleshly æsthete remains curled without the darling. For personal beauty, and especially for tonsorial adornment, Murat Halstead has no superiors, while for sense and truthfulness he has few inferiors. The subject of this notice has a wild, weird way of attacking and vilifying Republican party leaders, and afterward of becoming their long-lost brother. In 1873 he was one of General Garfield's most merciless assailants. In 1880, before the National Convention met, the Commercial ridiculed the idea of General Garneld being considered in connection with the Presidency. On the very day of the nomination, as we are informed and believe, a

There seemed to be no way to compel him to decent behavior and at the same time allow him to remain confronted with the witnesses in the court-room. This difficulty is now at an end. There are no more witnesses to be examined. He is entitled to a public trial. This does not necessitate his continuous presence. He is entitled to the assistance of counsel. The Court has already informed him that he had a right to be heard personally in his own defense, or by counsel, but that he cannot do both, and that, having employed counsel, he cannot usurp their functions. There is precedent for removing a turbulent prisoner from the court-room during the argument of counsel, and this course was sustained by the New York Court of Appeals. If Guiteau can be restrained from bad behavior during the argument, well and good. Register Ramsdell's Suit for Damages.
Yesterday in the Circuit Court the case of Mr. H. J. Ramsdell against the District of Columbia was on hearing. Mr. Totten appeared for the piantiff. The District was represented by Messrs. Riddle and Miller. The plaintiff store for $25,000 damages sustained by Indian on Massachusetts avenue, near the Louise Home, last January, and thereby breaking his leg and sustaining other severe injuries. He attributes the accident to the defective condition of the sidewalk and to the neglect of the defendants in not removing the leg and snow. Mr. Ramsdell was placed on the stand and testified to the accident. He was asked if the night was a light one, and said: "If the lamps were lit! I suppose it was for it is only on light nights the gas is lighted, not on dark nights." Mr. Richardson testified that where the sceident occurred tee was on the sidewalks for some weeks. The case had not been concluded when the court adjourned.

The petition of E. D. Wright, William Fogan, and others, protesting against the extension of the track of the Bailimore and Potamas Railroad Company by constructing a lateral track from the main track on Virginia avenue into the wood-yard of John Miller, which was referred to Mr. Riddle, was this morning returned to the Commissioners with the following indocament: "There are five acts of Congress in reference to the lateral branches of this road. No one gives any express power to construct these side tracks. The company is permitted to exercise the same powers in the District as its original charter grants within the State of Maryland. To that act we must look to find out whether this right and power can be exercised here. I have no copy of that, and cannot decide the matter submitted till it is produced. These foreign corporations all ought to produce authentic copies of their charters when they ask for anything depending on them."

The school trustees are in a dilemma, as all the money appropriated for the present lased year for repairs has already been exhausted. No debt can be created, as under the present law it is a penal offense, and the only way to get out of the dilemma seems to be to ask Congress for a deficiency to get through the year. It is probable that this will be done.

THE CHRISTIANCY CASE.

WOULD it not be well to enlarge the Arguments in the Equity Court as to the Arguments in the Equity Court as to the Taking of Certain Testimony.

In the Equity Court, before Judge Wylle, Messra, Cuppy & Ingersoil, counsel for ex-Senator Christiancy, appeared in support of a motion for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of compainant's som, Victor and George Christiancy, at Lansing, Michigan. Messrs, Cole and John N. Oliver opposed the motion on the following grounds: That the plaintiff introduced the witnesses in his behalf before the examiner, and might then have examined all the Issues in the cause, but declined to do so, and dismissed them without doing so; and because the solicitors for the defensiant desired to orally cross-examine the witnesses if they should be examined upon the subject-matter mentioned in the interrogatories.

intill the testimony in the other instance was completed.

THAT HÅD NOT YET BEEN DONE.

Miss Mary Chamberlaine, Mrs. Lillie M. Christianog, the defendant, and her mother, Mrs. Laugenbeel, had not yet signed their testimony, which was awaiting them in the examiner's bands, and until that was done the testimony in the original bill and answer could not be considered as finished and closed. Mr. Oliver said that there was a rule of the court which permitted the examiner to sign a witness name to testimony where the witness had failed to do it. Judge Wylfe asked for the papers showing the manner in which the two witnesses in Michigan had been sworn to testify, and, after commenting upon the uncommon length of time the case had run through, promised to give an early decision.

The funeral of Harrison Burr, of Washington Lodge, No. 5, 1, 0, 0, F., took place yesterday aftermoon from Old-Fellows Hall. The hall was well filled, a large number of ladles being present. The edge of the slage was concealed by black cloth, and on it was exercised a Gothic arch, heavily draped in black, contamented with symbols of the craft. The background of the arch was shrouded in black cloth, and as the hall was in twilight the effect produced was welrd and impressive. Standing half way under the arch was a lectern, on either side of which sat Grand Secretary Sweet and the flev, James H. Cuthbert, stronded in the funeral gloom. In front of the stage, on the floor, was the casket, mearly concealed from sight by the magnificent foral tributes. The casket was made of walnut, richly lined, with heavy bar handles and embems of the order heavily but plainly trimmed. The plate bore the following inscription: "Harrison laurt: Died January 2, 1882, in the fortieth year of his age." At the lop of the plate were three links, in the centre of each link being the letters. "F. L. T." The Rev. Mr. Cuthbert delivered the funeral oration and was followed by Grand Secretary Sweet, who uttered a most feeling address. The following geneticmen acted as pail-beavers: From Washington Lodge, L. F. Randolph and S. T. Boss; Grand Lodge, J. T. Petty and C. B. R. College, Mount Nobo Encampment, Robert S. Scott and Henry Gittenger, and Grand Encampment, Janes Hughes and Thomas Greer. The services followed was buried at Oak Hill, the arrangements being carried out under the direction of Mr. W. S. Buehly.
